

Publications of Red Writes Books (Pen Names: Jeri)

List is not fully comprehensive of author's work.

Titles that were written but did not go to print, and plays that were written but did not go into production, have not been included.

Low-content journals and prompt books have not been included.

Rereleases, successive editions, or multiple-format releases (paperback, hardcover, downloadable, e-book, audiobook, other) have not been separately noted after the title is initially listed in the record.

Some titles have been clumped into their categories as a general number of titles of a certain type (lists available upon request).

This list also excludes work for which Red did not consider her role significant enough in the overall production of the project to warrant inclusion. Primarily, this list contains work on which Red was either the author or co-author of a work, but she has also included work for which her contributions were measurable in terms of the final product such as when she was a contributing editor (providing ample content and/or vastly changing the direction, tone, theme, and/or presentation of the work), or when she coached and mentored another author through the entire writing process from start to finish, often providing outline, structure, edits, direction changes, or other direct input.
